

Both lose only

Describe only what BOTH sides lose if this keeps running. Never "they do X." Concrete costs: a date, a sum, a name, a launch.

Blame points at each other; a shared loss points forward at one problem.

What we both lose

List, separately, five minutes. What will both sides be worse off for if this keeps up?

Money · time · trust · a launch · a relationship.

What we both lose

Same task, apart from A. Read aloud when you reconvene.

Overlaps go on the shared card.

Same boat

Any loss that appeared on both lists. Keep it up between the two groups. Three or more is a working boat.

Still different

Real disagreements that did not overlap. Write them down so nobody pretends they are gone.

Same boat, different oars.

Now what?

Around the shared items only: what changes if you treat that loss as the problem, not each other?

Your own

Rename "same boat" / "still different" in the words the two sides already use.
